Bill Pay Clerk Job Interview Preparation Guide.

Question # 1

Where do you see yourself in five years as Bill Pay Clerk?

Answer:-

I am really excited to put my knowledge to use as an accounting clerk, but I would like to continue my education. I don't know if I will go back to school or if I will get more certifications, but I would like to become an accountant within the next five years. Right now I see myself becoming an auditor as well. I have always been very detail oriented, so I would do well at reviewing records for accuracy. I know this company has a lot of opportunities for growth and promotion, which is part of the reason I am so interested in working here.

Question # 2

I like what I'm hearing but we've got a ton of great candidates. Why should we hire you as Bill Pay Clerk?

Answer:-

An easy question to answer well with one caveat - don't slam your fellow interviewee's. On the one hand, you have an opportunity to really stand out from the pack. Alternatively, You shouldn't assume the skills of other applicants. Focus on your own strengths, and if the interviewer hasn't given you an opportunity to mention that one "slam dunk" quality about yourself, now would be the time.

Is there a wrong way to answer this question? Consider the responses below:

- * "I really need a job right now"
- * "I need the money"
- * "Your office is really close to my house"
- * "I've always been interested in what you guys do"

Question # 3

What are your weaknesses as Bill Pay Clerk?

Answer:-

Another tricky one. The purpose of this question is to see how you view and evaluate yourself.

One the one hand, if you suggest you don't have any weaknesses, your interviewer will almost certainly see you as a lair, egotistical, or both.

Don't fall into the trap of trying to present a positive skill in disguise as a weakness, like "I work too hard" or "I am a perfectionist". Any experienced interviewer will see through this in a heartbeat.

Additionally, revealing that "I'm not really a morning person and have been known to come in late" raises immediate and obvious red flags.

Question # 4

What are your salary expectations as Bill Pay Clerk?

Answer:-

Many consider this question to be a loaded gun - dangerous in the hands of the inexperienced. Often times, an interviewee will start talking salary before they've had an opportunity to illustrate their skill set and value making any sort of leverage valueless. Here, knowledge is power, as salary often comes down to negotiation. Do some research into your industry to establish base rates of pay based on seniority and demand but keep in mind - your employer is hiring you for what they believe you are worth, and how much benefit they feel you will provide.

Question # 9

Tell me as Billing clerk position, would you describe a typical day in your current job?

Answer:-

As much as you want to sell your self in a good light, do not make the mistake of exaggerating your current position. Add some of your routine tasks to make it realistic and don't neglect things like paperwork. Try to be in the interviewers shoes as you answer this question. A job you have been doing for years should be part of you already and as such; you must know all the tasks you undertake. Try to show them that you plan well before you begin work and after you attain your goals, you review the process to see how you could be more efficient.

Question # 11

I don't expect you to go into too much detail - but why are you leaving your last job as Bill Pay Clerk?

Answer:-

An innocent question. But a question that if answered improperly, can be a deal breaker. While many individuals will be looking to a new job as a means of increasing their salary, "not being paid well enough at your last job" is not something you want to mention to your interviewer. After all, are you not likely to leave this particular job if you found you could make more down the street?

If you're currently employed and leaving of your own accord, craft your response around enhancing your career development and a seeking out of new challenges.

If your current employer is downsizing, be honest about it, remain positive, but keep it brief. If your employer fired you or let you go for cause, be prepared to give a brief - but honest - reply. No matter how tempting it may be, or how "unfair it was that they let you go" steer clear away from any and all drama and negativity. Any experienced employer understands that sometimes things happen. Staying positive is key here.

Question # 17

Tell us why should we hire you as Billing clerk position?

Answer:-

This is a very common question that is asked in almost every interview. I love this question because it gives you the opportunity to sell yourself. Discuss what makes you stand out from the crowd and show them how you can help advance their company. Remember to be specific. This is where all the company research you have done comes into play. You should have an idea as to why the company is hiring or looking to hire someone for that position. What problem do they have that they are looking for people to help them solve. And once you can establish this, you are to show them how you can solve this problem for them.

Question # 19

Bill Pay Clerk Interview Questions And Answers

Tell me as Billing clerk position, what sort of salary are you looking for?

Answer:-

Note that whenever you are going for an interview, this question may be asked. Before going, try to find out what the average salary for someone holding that position in that industry is paid. This would help prepare you for what is in front of you. Do not forget that this is only an interview and you haven't been offered the job, so do not go on negotiating. Just state something within the range you have researched and move on. Whatever you do, do not sell yourself short.

Question # 20

Can you tell us what bookkeeping software are you comfortable using?

Answer:-

In my career, I have had to use a few different bookkeeping software and programs, such as FreshBooks, Kashoo and QuickBooks. I strive to familiarize myself with new software through workshops offered at the local library and universities. I may not gain all of the skills needed to use these programs as a professional, but getting an introduction helps me easily pick up new software as needed. I also find these introductory courses make it easier to learn about new software on the go. I am a quick learner and very comfortable with computers, so I feel confident saying I will be able to work with the bookkeeping software your company uses after a short learning period.

Question # 24

Please tell me as Billing clerk position, why do you wish to leave your present job?

Answer:-

No matter what you say, do not mention negative things about your employer, neither should you mention anything about more money being the reason. The reason is simple; if you are leaving a company because of money to come to theirs, you will definitely leave them to move on to another if it promises a better paycheck. Your best bet is to say it on responsibility and challenge and how your previous position wasn't challenging you enough. Indicate that you yearn for more responsibility and how what you have to offer outweighs the responsibility and challenge posed by your former position.

Question # 25

Can you explain as Billing clerk position, how do you respond to working under pressure?

Answer:-

The essence of this question is to test your composure, ability to solve problems and staying true to the task, even in unfavorable conditions. Give an example of a time where you were faced with a challenge and what you did to remedy the situation. In the process, highlight how you were calm and in control till everything was okay.

Question # 26

Explain me as Billing clerk position, what are your weaknesses?

Answer:-

Turn this question into a strength question in disguise. For instance, say something like "I do not like not being challenged at work" or you could mention a weakness that has nothing to do with the job and that you can overcome with training. This way, you end up turning this potentially tricky question into a positive. Sometimes, you may be asked about certain challenges you faced in your previous position. If you are asked this question, lean towards the problem that happened early in your career and that you were able to solve. Do not try to blame others, just identify the problem and the role you played in solving it.

Question # 28

Explain me what do you do to avoid making errors?

Answer:-

As an accounting clerk, I rely on my attention to detail to help me avoid making errors. Of course no one is perfect, so I can't catch every error out there. At my last job we used a series of peer reviews to ensure important documents were as accurate as possible. I always take the time to pay attention to the details and double-check my work before sending in the final reports to the archives. I find I can best avoid making errors by double-checking the work I am doing as I enter data into the balance sheets. I also stay up to date on IRS forms and publications to ensure I am following the most recent guidelines and regulations. In my opinion there is no point in creating an error-free document if it is done according to out-of-date guidelines.

Question # 32

Tell me would you be comfortable communicating with vendors and clients?

Answer:-

For many accountants, being personable is not their number one trait. While I may not have won any awards for my amiability, I am able to communicate very well. I think it is important to be friendly, but it is more important to have the ability to clearly articulate your thoughts. If I was tasked with communicating with either vendors or clients, I would be able to explain reports, give presentations and write clear messages.
