Question # 2

What are the symptoms of TMJ? How are they treated?

Answer:-

Problems associated with the TMJ are:

- locking of jaw - headaches - earaches (buzzing in ear) - chewing discomfort - myofascial pain

Problems with the TMJ can arise from a variety of causes which include - malocclusions (improper bite) or bruxism (teeth grinding).

The most common treatment is the use of an occlusal splint or stabilization splint as they are sometimes called. These are removable devices moulded to fit the upper or lower arches of the teeth to regulate an improper bite.

Bite guards are often used to deal with symptoms resulting from bruxism and are worn at night.
