Question # 7

Is there any relation between dollar and gold value fluctuation?

Answer:-

During the crisis situation, there is a positive correlation between dollar value and value of gold because all investors will go towards quality products. In other words, flight to quality. And both dollar as well as gold are considered as safe havens. However, during normal times, this relation will not hold true. The dollar value will be more dependent upon interest rate parity, however, the gold value will be more dependent upon demand and supply factors.
